Response/Reflection

How do you know if you're holding firmly to the gospel of religion or the gospel of you? Here are some warning signs:

- You get frustrated with God because He's not giving you what you think you deserve.
- You're upset with God because you're twice as good as some other person, but you only have a fraction of what they have.
- You fail to extend grace in the same way you have received it from God.
- You're only interested in messages that immediately profit you.
- You're worn out by trying to live up to God's standard.
- You hate yourself for your failures.
- You want God to adjust His plans around your agenda.
- You live with a consumer mentality and not a contributor mentality.
